We all come from different areas, different cultures, different ways of life. We don't come to Andrean to form a melting pot. We all come here with our similarities and our differences to form a rainbow-a rainbow that illuminates our differences to create a style all our own.

As we gather from different schools we become acquainted with each other and the community we join. We outwardly display what many call "the Andrean look." However, the true Andrean look goes deeper than a uniform. What others fail to recognize is the true Andrean style.

We recognize and appreciate the differences in each other. Our different cultural backgrounds make us more tolerant and supportive of each other.

Whether it be at our monthly Mass as a community, or a basketball or football game, our special style shines through. We display style in our faith when the health and needs of the Andrean family are addressed. We display winning style at games when our excitement and enthusiasm show our opponents our support through thick and thin.

Sir Thomas More talks with Margaret about Roper's maturity and common sense.

Norfolk and Cromwell question the witness, Catherine Ager, about her bribery of Sir Thomas More.

Richard Rich agrees to Cromwell's proposition to spy on Thomas More.

King Henry VIII admires the Rose Bey in More's residence as Alice and Norfolk look on.

Signor Chapuys consults Matthew about Thomas More's religious beliefs and practices.

Cardinal Wolsey and his secretary Thomas Cromwell debate More's political standing in Wolsey's office.

Matthew, Sir Thomas More's servant, discusses More's fate with William Roper as Margaret looks on.

STUDENT LIFE

CLOCKWISE: The sophomore class displays its winning float.

The senior class joins the crowd in cheers. Seniors Mike Chevigny and Brett Galvan assume their roles as friars.

Robin Hood (Mark Rongers) entertains the crowd.

Jack Lehner tugs Jason Dickelman across the floor to celebrate a junior victory.

Denise Swanson, 1990 queen, crowns successor Missy Martens.

Ingrid Lopez and Mike McCarthy

1991 homecoming queen Missy Martens and her court

HOMECOMING DANCE

Mike Chevigny, George Bukur, Gina Ollvieri, Jason Neagu, and Randee Wheeler are ready for an evening of fun.

A dressed-up Cheryl Lehner enjoys the scenery.

Quentin Smith, Sarah Lopez, Mike Harman, and Carrie Kopp watch the dance from a different perspective.

Victoria Grandfield and Frank Tresgallo take time out to see the crowd.

Anitra Washington and Kimberly Bowens show everyone some dance steps of their own.

Becky Molnar, Liz Mayer, Cassie Grandfield, Kristin Zaremba, Stephanie Santos, and Mike McCarthy rock to the beat of the music.

Rafael Wilson and Ronetta McMillan decide to take a break.

Annette Barlas, Meredith Swan, and Jaci Kostelnik enjoy a few laughs between dances.

Amanda Azcona and Chris Hasara enjoy the music of the Music Men.

Kari Justak, Carrie Kopp, and Hillary Hitchcock perform in front of a pillar of homecoming balloons.

HALLOWEEN

Lisa Kackos as Dorothy, Denise Dorn as the Tin Man, Amy Bobin as the Scarecrow, and Brenda Pzonka as the Cowardly Lion deserve the prize they won for the most creative costumes.

Cowgirl Hillary Hitchcock and Meredith Swan take up square dancing.

Fabi Sanchez as Eric Tallackson and Eric Tallackson as Fabi Sanchez fool no one with their disguises.

Cheryl Lehner's baby clothes reflect a regression to her infancy.

The evening is still young, but Michole Brown and her teddy bear are ready to sleep after a bedtime snack.

A broken bone is no deterrent to Adam Azcona as he and Claude Chandler join the fun at the Halloween Sock Hop.

Lion-hearted Angie Lorandos is bashful around Father Joe.

Andrea gets a surprise visit from Cat Billick dressed as the Hamburger Helper.

Raggedy Andy and Raggedy Ann look-alikes Kelly Rak and Micki Felus were among the prize winners.

DADDY DATE NIGHT

Andrea Sangster, Roxanne Sakes, Gina Plontek, Jen Bucko, and their fathers wait for dinner to be served at Daddy Date Night.

Melissa Aguilar and her father wait for the next dance to begin.

Vicki Crandfield and her father dance to the music provided by Abbey Road.

MOMMY DATE NIGHT

Rodolpho Jao and Rodney Jao share an after-dinner dance with their mother and grandmother.

Dan Camacho's mother accepts his invitation to a dance.

Niners vacation in style

Ever just have one of those days? You wake up late for school, accidentally brush your teeth with Clearasil, rush off to school, get a speeding ticket, realize you forgot your chemistry homework and fall down the up stairs. If this is you, it's time for a vacation.

Many Niners found spring break the perfect time to get away. "Spring break is the best time to escape from reality," said Junior Kelly Cargal.

Sophomores Velda Turan, Katie Wheeler, Luci Pati, Heather Mauplin, Angie Tomlin, and Mandy Venturin used spring break to travel to Sanibel Island, Florida.

"We rode our bikes everywhere, but we spent most of the time on the beach," said Velda Turan.

Twelve seniors and one junior accompanied Mrs. Thomas on her annual trip to England and Scotland. "We got to interact with different cultures and see all the things we learned in school," said senior Janet Krienke. Some of the sights included Birmingham, Oxford, York, Edinburgh, and London.

Juniors Nancy Huff and Jeanne Rice were invited to attend the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington, D.C. for six days. They participated in a mock Congress at which Jeanne was a speaker.

"It was really interesting. I finally got to see how our government works," said Jeanne.

Junior Rosa Vazquez and senior Maria Vazquez also went to Florida to get away and relax, but the vacation didn't go that well. Their car broke down, they both got sunburns, Rosa lost her favorite pair of shoes, and it rained the last three days of their vacation.

"I think I need a vacation from my vacation," said Rosa.

Julia Banks

Liz McMahon, Julie Maraszkiewicz, Dave Retseck, Vicki Grandfield, Sabath Smith, and Scott Bacon try to decide where to go next in Stratford-upon-Avon.

Sabath Smith, Vicki Grandfield, Janet Krienke, and Jen Trzupel are ready for sightseeing tour of Edinburgh.

Katie Wheeler, Velda Turan and Mandy Venturin take up fishing while vacationing in Florida.

Angle Tomlin, Mandy Lickteig and Mandy Venturin use bikes to see the sunny sights of Florida.

Nancy Huff stands outside the Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C.

Jen Trzupek willingly poses next to a guard in London.

Nancy Huff and Jeanne Rice stand behind Senator Lugar's desk.

TALENT SHOW

Douglas Spiller, D'Angelo Jones, and Ethan Burnett dazzle the crowd with their singing and dancing.

Gilbert Tinoco fires up the crowd as he raps to his favorite song.

Mark Rongers offers a musical valentine.

Staci Jones, Lisa Waddell, and Tameka Malone show off their dancing skills at the Talent Show.

Scott Burdan concentrates on keeping the rhythm with his guitar.

WALK-A-THON

Laura Mlechick, Angie Lorandos, and Tony hasara race to get their Dilly bar.

Seniors Patty Robinson, Jennifer Betz, and Melanie Bielak are charmed by the Army representative.

Despite broken legs and knee braces Jen Quaglia and Jenn Kroepf meet with Sheila Fagen and Missy Martens to continue their trek.

Umparrys Gonzalez, Shanta Belyeu and Rosa Vazquez, equipped with Walkmans, water jugs, and sunglasses, beat the heat.

Paul Jarzembski, Nicole Pfeifer, Justin Robbins, and Eva Sfura embark on their first kilometer.

Michelle Rizzo and Nikki Perrin enjoy a chat while walking.

Senior Mark Jonas decides to run his 5 laps of the Walk-a-thon.

Dennis Billena and Eric Marasco show that there's more than one way to dance.

Nicole Tirapelli and Rodolfo Jao enjoy themselves while dancing.

Linda Nowzaradan and Michael McDonald shake it up to their favorite song at Turnabout.

John Ozug and Jen Dubec take time out to enjoy the sweets of Turnabout.

Stacey Nickoloff, Randee Wheeler and Jen Smigla abandon their dates for some female bonding.

Niner style begins, ordinarily enough, with an oxford cloth shirt and a plain pair of black trousers or a quiet plaid skirt. Catch us most school days, hard at work and fashion unconscious, and you'll find a schoolhouse full of button-down clones.

Take a closer look, and you'll see subtle but certain individual differences — sox, shoes, handbags, hairstyles — accessories as distinctly different as the personalities of their wearers, and when the school day ends, our individuality becomes dazzlingly apparent. Niners are just as fashionable as their public school counterparts, maybe more so.

Perennially popular after hours are jeans and t-shirts or sweats with favorite collegiate or team logos; some things never change. Some things do. The passion for highly-visible designer labels has cooled. Students still pledge allegiance to favorite brands — Gap, J. Crew, Polo, American Eagle, Express, Nike, Reebok, Esprit, Benetton, Umbro, Bugle Boy, Guess — and favorite logos — B.U.M. and Hard Rock Café — but cut, color, and quality are more important than name brands or price tags. "No one seems to care whose name is on your clothes as long as you look good and are comfortable with yourself," says senior Becky Molnar. More popular than ever are black clothes, head-to-toe or as an accent, though Niners largely ignore black leather biker styles and the lingerie look popularized by rock star Madonna. More to Andean tastes are the looks of classic designers, of favorite rappers, or of the wearer's unique individual expression. Other popular items of out-of-school wear, for weekends and workouts, are rugby shirts, spandex pants, body suits, and outsize shirts. Jean bottoms, according to Becky, get wider and longer (a return to the sixties?) every year.

Dress-up days bring out blazers, penny loafers, "sweet old-fashioned girl" floral print dresses with long, sweeping skirts or shockingly short hemlines. Dances, including the prom, showcased the year's fashion surprise, short gowns, mostly black or white. In drop-dead elegant fabrics such as satin or velvet, lavishly trimmed with beads or sequins. Equally stunning were the traditional Scarlett O'Hara gowns with full skirts in white or pastel hues. A few dresses at prom were bridal gowns sans veils, and at least one memorable dress was so form-fitting that its wearer was limited in movement. Tails and canes, increasingly popular with promgoing males, heightened the formality of the evening. Paisley cummerbunds, on the other hand, were "just for fun."

"No one seems to care whose name is on your clothes as long as you look good and are comfortable with yourself."

There is no single source for Niner style, according to Becky and sophomore Nicole Milos. Shopping habits are as individual as the students themselves. Senior Grant Blachly swears by the Salvation Army, leading a thrift shop trend that offers fun and freedom from the dictates of fashion. Jennifer Fuller, also a senior, adds to her collection of vintage jewelry on trips to resale markets and antique shops. Catalogue shopping offers another route of escape from local malls. L. L. Bean is a favorite mall store for bookbags and serious sportswear, according to Nancy Huff, junior. Southlake Mall is a handy choice for junior Stephanie Anderson and a majority of her fellow students. Lighthouse Place factory outlet mall in Michigan City is a well-known haunt for bargain hunters. "There are good prices on good clothes if you get there on the right days," says senior Rosiel Ombac. The high-fashion haunts of Chicago attract the devoutly fashionable and those who seek variety. Junior Julie Petrick prefers Bloomingdale's and its North Michigan Avenue neighbors because of the wider selection of clothes and accessories available there.

Hoop earrings are the overwhelming choice of Andean girls. Small hoops or jeweled studs are favorites for boys — but only after school hours. Designer logo handbags are an exception to the no-label look, with Liz Claiborne, Pendi, Qucci, and Louis Vuitton still leading in popularity. Jansport bookbags outnumber other brands nearly two to one among Andean students. Nicole's informal survey also revealed that Drakkar, Eternity, Tuscany and Obsession are the favorite colognes of Niner males; girls' favorites are Beautiful, Eternity, and Tribe.

Niner style, morning, noon or night, is distinct but indefinable, recognizable but indescribable, at once subtle and striking. It's fun. It's serious. It's flea market cheap and Neiman Marcus swanky. It's buttoned down, kicked back, dressed up, cut loose. It's a style all our own!

Polka dots are hot, and Kathleen de la Paz considers adding an off-the-shoulder short-skirted polka-dotted dress to her summer wardrobe.

Jeans are a uniform, too, but one most students gladly don. Laura Dabrowski, Sandy Rodriguez, Madge Harsha, Nikki Anderson, and Chrissy Krahm wear theirs to the Halloween sock hop.

Fashion shopper Katie Wheeler tries on a cool-color print frock and coordinating flower-trimmed hat.

Fringe and sequins add dazzle to Tameka Malone's black Turnabout dress.

Pink lipstick and a fashionable satchel are Jennifer Trzupek's personal touches to the school uniform.

On senior dress-up day Oklahoman Megan Groves recalls her Southwestern roots with a long wool skirt of Native American-Inspired design. Jeff Podnar's layered turtle and jacquard knit are casual and correct.

Hats, hats, and more hats give Mandy Lickteig unlimited opportunity to accessorize.

CONCERTS

Musicians earn awards

The Andrean Choir sang at the Christmas and spring concerts. Songs sung at the spring concert were from the movie Beauty and the Beast. In addition, the choir attended the IHSMA competition during April. They received first place in sightreading and second place for overall performance.

The Andrean band also performed at the Christmas and spring concerts and attended the IHSMA competition where they received first place in sightreading. The band also won second place in overall performance. The band went further and competed in the State of the Art competition receiving and Honorable Mention. The band's best performance was during halftime of a Valparaiso University football game. The band also participated in a marching contest at Highland High School where Rafael Wilson was selected the outstanding drum major. At year's end the marching band attended the Mexican Independence Day parade.

Mrs. Rodriguez, director, said, "This year's group of seniors will be very much missed because they have put forth so much effort, and it will be difficult to replace them."

The dance floor is livened by seniors Jen Quaglia and Sean Abercrombie.

Maria Vazquez and Prom royalty candidate Manny Medellion, Mike McCarthy and royalty candidate Fabi Sanchez join royalty candidates Dennis Billena and Kristen Zaremba as all were honored on this special night. Prom prince Jeff Charlton and prom princess Sarah Hildago were also honored.

Sarah Hildago, Jeff Charlton, Michelle Swallow and her date, and Dave Mestrich and Amy Velez have their picture taken for Prom memories.

DINING IN STYLE ----

A low rumble echoes through the halls. Is it the snarl of a savage beast? No, it's the collective growl of the student stomachs right around feeding time. Everyone has heard that embarrassing sound that makes others turn around and stare when the invisible monster inside us makes it known we're hungry. Once we realize the fact that we're hungry, we have to answer these questions: Where do we eat? What do we eat? Most Important, When do we eat?

Most students like to be seen at "cool" eateries, which brings up the question: What is cool? and who designates what's "in" or "out"? Sandy Rodriguez said, "If it's quick and convenient, it's cool." Many students think atmosphere is the deciding factor if a place is "cool" or not. Cat Billick said, "A cool place is determined by who goes there, basically, and how clean it is." Velda Turan agreed. "In my opinion, the atmosphere has to be loud and lively. The food should not be high-priced, and it must taste good." Other students judge a restaurant strictly by the food. Amara Wright likes "any place with edible food."

Whatever it is that designates these cool stops deserves thanks from the many poor lost souls who would rather starve than be seen at a place declared "out." No matter where Niners eat, they do it in style.

Chris Boillot stops at Taco Bell after school with his friends.

Mike Harman and Justin Sonnicksen make a quick and easy stop before practice.

Cheryl Lehner offers table service to Tim Walker, Prit Sinchal, Craig Stafford, Brian Bishop, and Dennis Bilrena.

Stephanie Thompson and Beth Magdzlarz munch on cafeteria specialties as they review for a test.

It's time to eat

It's feeding time. Do you know where your friends are? Do you know where to go to eat to be considered cool? Answer the next two questions and see if your answers agree with the majority. Do you prefer health food or junk food? One out of four students likes to stay on the health food track, so give yourself a point for either answer. What's your favorite fast food restaurant? If your answer was McDonald's or Burger King, give yourself a star, because 75% of those surveyed preferred these restaurants.

when he's too shy to make the first move —

WHAT'S A GIRL TO DO?

Ann and Bob have been smiling at each other for the past few weeks, rarely adventuring beyond that limited form of communication. When they do, conversation usually falters after a few shy comments about the weather. Ann doesn't know how to react to Bob. His friends say he likes her, but why won't he ask her for her phone number? Ann is considering calling Bob, but isn't the male supposed to make the first move?

"It's hard to say," comments senior Mark Jonas. "I think guys are realizing that girls are calling and maybe we don't have to call them." If the girls are increasingly calling the males, will the male role and ego be crushed as guy likes her, and he'll have to call her up. They (girls who do call) haven't made me less forward."

Some girls either won't call or they feel reckless about calling a boy. "Sometimes it takes nerve, but I just do it," is how sophomore Katie Wheeler thinks about calling boys. "I don't worry about it because I figure the worst that could happen is that nothing will come of it. He's not going to be mean to me on the phone the first time." Junior Bridget Loker would "if it's just a friendly thing, but if I liked him in any way, I'd be too insecure to call him."

"Just because I call a boy doesn't mean I like him as more than a friend," agrees sophomore Sandy Rodriguez. Freshman Perrin Rongers is emphatically against calling because, "I don't have the guts."

RRRRRRRRRRRRRRRING!

BOB: HELLO?

ANN: HII IS BOB THERE?

BOB: SPEAKING.

ANN: UH, HI, THIS IS ANN.

BOB: OH HII UMM, LISTEN, CAN I CALL YOU BACK? WHAT'S YOUR NUMBER?

"The key," according to Mark Hojnacki, "is that if you don't know her number, right off you get it." Senior Nick Urakalo agrees on the simplicity of the matter, "Say you'll call ... guys are realizing that girls are calling and maybe we don't have to call them.

females gain equality, if not dominance? What will prevent that, according to junior Eric Hasty, is that "women will always be different. I don't look down on women, and I wouldn't mind a woman boss, but women are more vulnerable than men and need to be protected."

What is preferred? Should a girl call the boy first or wait for him to call her? Some males are too shy to make the first move, and that call will never be made. Is that when the woman should make the first call, or should she grow old waiting for her knight in shining armor to get up the nerve? "If I like someone, I prefer to call her first. It makes me feel like a stud," is the way sophomore Mike Harman looks at it.

"If there's a mutual feeling," says Mark Jonas, "the girl should also call the guy so he's not sitting out in wonderland wondering what the girl thinks of him. It's only fair." Senior Mark Hojnacki thinks it's okay for the girl to call first, but, "Nine times out of ten the girl's not going to know if the Becky Billick takes the important first move and calls the guy she has her eye on.

After a friendly chat Ibe Mbanu gives Nicole Taylor his phone number.

Karyn Chapas and Elizabeth Sangster persuade Velda Turan to call her latest interest.

her back. That's all you have to do to make sure she knows you want to talk to her."

How well the conversation goes can also determine whether or not a guy minds the girl calling. The mention of sports isn't always a safe topic, according to Mark Hojnacki: "You can't shut me up." If you're trying to interest your Romeo, talking about a girl he doesn't know or another guy is not the way to go about it. "A guy doesn't want to hear about a girl on another planet," agrees freshman Matt Snawder. Mike Harman doesn't appreciate it if "she talks about a past relationship, but it also depends on what she says about him." Sophomore A.J. Sajda likes to talk "about her past, what she's been like until today."

"It's helpful," according to Mark Jonas, "to know a few things about the person. If you're forgetful, write them down. No one can see if you have a paper or not."

"The key is having a good atmosphere," explains Mark Hojnacki. "Have some good music playing, and nine times out of ten it will give you a topic for conversation."

ANN: HELLO?

BOB: HI, ANN!

ANN: DID YOU HEAR WHAT HAPPENED IN FIFTH PERIOD CHEMISTRY?

BOB: YEAH, I WAS WALKING BY AND THERE WAS GREEN JELLO AND PINEAPPLE EVERYWHERE!

ANN: I HEARD TIMOTHY HAS SATURDAYS FOR THE NEXT TWO MONTHS ...

"I don't worry about it because I figure the worst thing that could happen is that nothing will come of it."

Knowing when to call it quits is extremely important. In most cases, the guy will drop various subtle hints to let a girl know he is no longer interested.

RRRRRRRRRING!

BOB: HELLO?

ANN: HI, BOBI

BOB: UH, ANN, CAN I LET YOU GO? I HAVE TO GO KNIT SOME SOCKS FOR MY IGUANA.

BOB: HELLO?

ANN: HI BOBI

BOB: ANN, I NEED TO HELP MY MOM FROST HER HAIR. I'LL SEE YOU TOMORROW.

Other subtle tactics may even involve the siblings of your Romeo. Mike Harman has his sister Michelle say he's not home and Eric Hasty has his sister Jen say she needs to use the phone. A.J. Sajda will make up "a lie or story."

The best indicator of whether or not to continue calling is how the conversation goes. Mark Hojnacki would "make the conversation short or talk about another girl." He might even ask her to "put in a good word for me with so and so."

If you've been agonizing over the question of to call or not to call, then remember Ann and Bob, and most importantly, Nick Urakalo's advice:

"If you call a guy, he probably won't care. Make sure you can tell when he is uninterested and quit while you're ahead. If he's mean to you, don't worry about it. Just blow him off because he is not worth your time."

ORGANIZATIONS

Campus Ministry joins students

The student body meets regularly to celebrate the Eucharist with the help of Campus Minister Mrs. Ventura and the campus ministry team, which consists of Fr. Quanz, Mr. Romano, Mr. Rosta, and Mrs. Shapiro. They begin preparation for Mass three to four weeks before the actual celebration. Music for Masses is conducted by Mrs. Rodriguez. Cheryl Lehner and Liz Price find student readers, cross bearers, and gift bearers. Although not everyone at Andean is Catholic, everyone unites in friendship for the celebrations.

Campus Ministry also handles retreats. All students and many faculty members make the retreats a time to look back on past experiences and reflect. The freshman retreat is a time for new students to begin their adjustment to Andean and to meet others in a relaxed and pleasant atmosphere.

Mr. Klora and Mr. Rosta listen to the homily with their homerooms at Mass.

The sophomore retreat has always stressed self-awareness. Students take the opportunity to explore their dreams and fears and share them with others.

The junior retreat is concerned with preventing drug and alcohol abuse. This retreat presents a panel of recovered addicts sharing their stories of pain, addiction, and withdrawal, proving that addiction can happen to anyone and that drugs and alcohol are very dangerous.

The senior retreat is a time of reflection. At Camp Lawrence the seniors discuss a growing knowledge of themselves, their relationships with others, and their relationship with Jesus.

Retreats help everyone to become more sensitive to others and to become better friends, students, and followers of God.

Nina Carpio and Rosiel Ombac, Ken Boillot, and Janeen Galloway exchange the sign of peace.

Freshmen and sophomores discuss retreat activities.

Council builds spirit

During an icebreaker game, confusion develops among student council members.

The Student Council worked hard to promote school spirit with a Thanksgiving dinner, Homecoming dance, and red and gold days. At Christmas the council collected gifts for the homeless. To help students at Andrean keep in touch, the council created Christmas and Valentine's Day mailboxes. The Student Council also sponsored Prom and Turnabout. Busy officers were president, Missy Martens; vice-president, Laura Tucker; secretary, Jenna Novotny; treasurer Matt Martens.

National Honor Society is led by the president, Mike de la Paz; vice-president, Linda Nowzaradan; treasurer Ken Bollot; and secretary, Dennis Billena. All members work as volunteer tutors to students who need help with their studies. In addition, they help prospective newcomers tour Andrean at open house and at orientation. Junior NHS members act as ushers at the Baccalaureate Mass. To acknowledge their hard work, NHS members wear a special stole over their gowns at Commencement. Mrs. Nancy Pati is moderator.

A yearbook serves as a memory book, historical record, reference source, public relations vehicle, and educational tool. Thus, it is the staff's job to make sure all of these functions are incorporated.

Before the school year even begins, decisions were being made concerning typestyles, theme, and the layout of the Decussata. Co-editors Rosiel Ombac and Amara Wright, guided by Mrs. Steele and Mrs. Thomas, oversee the staff's progress in the production of the yearbook. Photography editor Mike de la Paz assigns his staff to cover various events throughout the school year.

A variety of parties and service projects highlighted the year for French students. The French Club celebrated Christmas at a party where the members ate a variety of French foods and sang Christmas carols. At Open House the club members distributed copies of the course syllabus and played a tape of a French television show for their prospective students. In February club members threw a surprise baby shower for moderator Mrs. Simmons. Michelle Rizzo served as club president and Megan Groves was the vice-president.

Romans celebrate

Because Sister Paul is aware of students' schedules, she plans only three to five Latin Club meetings each year. At these meetings members plan and celebrate the Roman holidays, Saturnalia, the Ides of March, and the birthday of Rome. Saturnalia commemorates the ancient Roman festival of giving thanks to the god Saturn for a plentiful harvest. The Ides of March marks the death of Caesar.

During foreign language week Latin students made maps of Italy, dolls dressed in togas, dioramas, and pictures of mythological Roman stories. Students wore togas and buttons stating "I love Latin" for extra credit. Although in Roman times the food consisted mostly of grain, honey, cheese, and olive oil, the cafeteria served an Italian menu to celebrate the day.

We recycle

The Environmental Club was created to help students become aware of the problems facing the environment. Members recycle cans and glass bottles in the cafeteria. Paper was recycled in the classroom saving 273 trees. To show the number of saved trees, paper trees were hung at Hidden Lake Park.

In April the club participated in the Campus Clean-Up along with the Student Council. To celebrate Earth Day the Environmental Club joined the Science Club to sell T-shirts.

Adding Up

The math club's agenda included participation in many contests and activities. In the fall, Mrs. Joyce Fetterer, a tax preparer from Hobart, came to speak about mathematics in tax preparation.

Later in the year, members viewed a film on space missions called Astros-miles. Mrs. Mary Shafer, moderator, obtained this video on her trip to the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama in July. Mrs. Shafer was selected to participate in this program because of three essays that accompanied her application. Out of one hundred teachers, Mrs. Shafer was the only one from Indiana.

The club's annual project, Math-into-Action, introduced sixth, seventh, and eighth graders to the fun of math. The participants viewed movies on the Hubble Space Telescope, data transmissions from space crafts, and graphing on co-ordinate axes. The participants learned about packaging delicate items by participating in an egg drop.

The club participated in three math contests, including the calculator tournament in March and the state math contest in April, both at Indiana University Northwest. The final contest was the Chesterton Invitational mathematics contest in May.

Later in the year, science club members went to the Museum of Holography in Chicago, and they also attended a workshop on coral reefs and their inhabitants at the John G. Clowns put on a happy face

The clowns say a prayer, "Thank you God for giving us the gift of laughter, help us spread that joy, and please let things go smoothly." Mrs. "Tumbleweed" Erickson, the moderator, usually leads the prayer. While all the clowns think about the show at hand, the young people in the audience wait impatiently.

"The show is the fun, easy part," Cat "Dit-Z" Billieck says. "The hours of preparation are where the work comes in." Those hours consist of learning skits, walk-arounds, and tricks a clown can use to entertain a few kids, and most importantly how to apply make-up.

"The best thing a person can do for someone who is upset is make them smile, and most people can't help but smile when they see a clown repeatedly being the butt of all the jokes. That's when making an idiot of yourself doesn't seem so bad," admits Cat "Dit-Z" Billieck.

Academic teams compete for titles

Decathlon places third

Taking first place at the Morton regionals, the Academic Decathlon team placed third at state competition at the University of Indianapolis in January. Team members competed in ten areas: interview, essay, speech and impromptu, science, math, language and literature, economics, fine arts, social studies, and the Super Quiz.

Team members are, in the honors division, Jenn Dubec, Liz McMahon, and Michelle Rizzo; in the scholastic division, Grant Blachly, Jeff Podnar, and Megan Warrick; in the varsity division, Laura Mlechick, Eric Stankewicz, and Rick Uskert. Alternate is Mike Rusbasan. Coaches are Mr. John Szot and Mrs. Edith Dakich.

Teams place in region

Academic Super Bowl team members compete in five areas: math, science, English, fine arts, and social studies. A sixth team is selected for interdisciplinary competition.

The math squad is made up of seniors Mike de la Paz, John Viene, and Amanda Wright, and sophomore John Ayoub. English squad members are senior Tony Hasara, juniors Beth Dailey and Veronica Maya, and sophomore Amanda Azcona and George Kotsinis. Juniors Chris Caban, Mike Sarafin, J.P. Walker, and Jeff Wilson, and sophomore Mark Donahue made up the social studies squad.

The science squad, seniors Scott Bacon and Mike de la Paz, juniors Mike Rusbasan and J.P. Walker, and sophomore Tammy Ray, and the fine arts squad, seniors Ryan Tatham and Stela Emeka, juniors Nancy Huff and Kunteera Vachirasomboon, and sophomore Cheryl Dienes, both placed first at the Wheeler regional, but did not qualify for state.

Spellers beat Griffith

In November, the Spell Bowl team placed third in state competition. To attain this rank the team defeated regional champion, Griffith, in a tie-breaker round. Spell Bowlers acquired their expertise by practicing over the summer, in the mornings, and afterschool, eventually mastering a spelling repertoire of thirteen hundred words.

A Set Style

The varsity volleyball team conquered rival Merrillville in regular season play and in sectionals. Alided by defensive specialist Marianne Lustina, the Niners rallied to defeat the Pirates (15-5), (15-4). In sectionals help came from top setters Cherlynn Villaflor and Jennifer Bartolome. The young varsity team was led by returning seniors Kristine Franks, Gayle Hirsh and Sheila Fagen, team captain and mental award recipient. MVP and best hitter was Carolyn Kacocha. Under coach Mrs. Sallee Mallinich, the varsity team finished the season with a record of 11 and 15.

The junior varsity team, coached by Mr. Naveed Nizam, ended the season 14 and 11. Kellyn Gurnak received the leadership award and Brenda Pszonka was named MVP. Led by MVP Christine Wilson, coached by Rev. Kevin McCarthy and assisted by Mrs. Laurie Gutowski, the freshman A and B teams completed the season 15 and 4.

"I'm very honored to be MVP, but I couldn't have done it without the rest of the team. The game that sticks out in my mind is against Merrillville. The team really came together."

Carolyn Kacocha-Varsity MVP

"This was a year full of adjustments. Getting used to a new coach, coaching style and team members took its toll on the first half of the season, but by the end we were playing much better and we did well in sectionals. Next year's team should be able to pick up where we left off and do even better."

Niners Take Sectionals

Winning the sectional, the varsity football team reached the Elite Eight, thereby defending their championship and accomplishing the famous "3 peat." (three consecutive sectional championships!) The season concluded with a loss to the eventual 4A State Champion, Hobart.

The Niners' loss to Merrillville was very unusual, as a storm caused half of the game to be played on Friday and the rest on Saturday night.

The Niners' schedule remains one of the top in the state after the addition of New Lenox Providence Catholic. The Niners' were the first team to score on them this season.

"Senior leadership was very strong. They were the cornerstone, but a nice blend of underclass talent contributed to our success. However, it was the seniors who once again led us to the championship. Boillot, Granger, Hilbrich, Mayhoe, Mbanu, Mihal, Qualizza, Rozin, Santos, Swallow and Urukalo all played a memorable part. They are achievers," states Coach Zimmer.

Captains were Ken Boillot (2 year starter), Sean Granger (3 year starter), Chris Qualizza (4 year starter), and Joe Santos (3 year starter).

Special awards went to: Joe Santos and Eric Bachich, MVP; J.P. Walker, Best Offensive Lineman; Joe Santos, Best Offensive Back; Tom Hilbrich, Best Receiver; Ken Boillot, Best Defensive Lineman; Chris Qualizza, Best Linebacker and Hardest Hitter; Sean Granger, Best Defensive Back and Pride, Hustle and Leadership; Jason Neagu, Most Improved Player; Paul Muszik, Most Versatile; Nick Urukalo, Best Specialist; and Billy Finn, Most Coachable Player.

Winning Style

The Andrean freshman football team concluded a very successful season, their only loss being to Merrillville. "The team was successful, not only from the standpoint of wins, but from the ability to unite into a close family in a very short time," says Coach Scheub. The football staff says that the freshmen have set their goals very high for the next three years. Special awards went to Jeremy Bilka, Most Valuable Lineman and Tom Lustina, Most Valuable Back.

"The JV team displayed courage and determination during the season and learned a great deal about football. The football staff expects them to contribute on the varsity level next season," says Coach Zimmer.

Regional Victory

Led by Most Valuable Player, junior Shelly Holzer, the girls' cross country team qualified for the semi-state races, becoming only the eighth team to earn such an honor at Andrean. The team was led to its many victories by the coaching of Mr. Tom Perrin. Most Improved Players, Gina Medellin and Jennifer Herr, also made significant contributions. The young team is expected to continue in its success.

The boys' cross country team, led by Most Valuable Players Marshall Lowe and Craig Pankiewicz, conquered sectionals and then advanced to regionals. Most Improved Runner, Dan Uskert, contributed to the team. Coached by Mr. Upp, the boys developed their growing skills and were put to the test against state ranked East Chicago Central where, according to team member Ryan Board, "Everyone ran his best race of the year."

Cheers and Poms Spread Spirit

Andean cheerleaders led the school with spirit and effort which earned them many awards. The varsity squad began with a first place win at Dynamic Cheerleaders Association Camp at Valparaiso. The squad also placed first at the Football O' Rama competition in the fall. Although still practicing and cheering for football and basketball games, cheerleaders had to find extra time in their busy schedules to make their second annual trip to Nationals successful. Varsity cheerleaders finished ninth out of thirty squads at the National Competition in Kansas City, Missouri. The Varsity squad also won an award for Outstanding Spirit at Nationals. The Junior Varsity won second place at Dynamic Cheerleaders Association camp and placed sixth of eleven squads at the National Competition. They received an Outstanding Creativity Award in their division. Varsity and JV squads are sponsored by Mrs. Nicolini and Miss Kopil.

The Pom Pon's, led by captains Bibi Badar, Amy Osterman and Fabi Sanchez, displayed school spirit at home games and pep rallies. With original routines choreographed by grad Jennifer Oates, the Pom Pons captivated the crowds. The squad's hard work and dedication were rewarded at Purdue University's "Danz America" where they won the Spirit Stick Award and the camp's highest honor of Best Home Routine. The squads' moderator was Sr. Christopher.

"Cheering at Andrean has been a great experience for me. Not only have I had the chance to cheer for some excellent teams, but also have had the support of the rowdiest fans in Northwest Indiana to back me up! We have had many hard times, with losing seasons, injuries, etc., but cheerleading has been well worth the time and energy. Hey, Fifty-Niners, thank you for four great years!"

Cheryl Lehner-Varsity Captain

"Being a captain of the Pom Pon squad, has been fun and fantastic. This year seemed like more fun than work. We put in a lot of time, but it was worth all of the extra effort and time."

"Ever since freshman year I wanted to be a Pom. I would watch them at the games and pep rallies in awe and admiration. This year, being my third as a member, I was chosen to be one of the captains. I wanted to make this squad the best, filled with fun and excitement. I'm so very proud of the girls. They've worked extremely hard and sacrificed so much time to make this squad great and proud. Thank you pommies, you've made me so proud of you. Keep Jamming!"

Training For Success

The crowd roars as another Niner athletic event begins. The shouts from frantic fans draw to a thunderous climax as the first seconds of the game pass. Long before the cheers begin, however, are hours of hard practice, which leads to sprains, strains, aches, and pains. The role of the athletic trainer begins here. Andean's athletic trainers are a crew of professionals and students responsible for the care and prevention of athletic injuries.

The trainers' job begins even before the practice season starts. They order supplies, fit equipment and educate athletes on good nutrition. During the season, their jobs are recognizing, treating and rehabilitating athletic injuries.

Heading the team of trainers is Mr. Andy Kirk with 32 years of service and Susan Dukat, A.T.C., with two years of service at Andean. Steve Radice, Rosa Vasquez, Lucia Pati and Amber Zimmer have been training for two years, working school athletic events and attending workshops. Julia Banks and Rich Swallow have been training for one year, working the athletic events to further their skills.

Mr. Kirk said, "They're really the best staff we've had in all the years I've been here."

Everyone agrees the student training program is an educational and worthwhile experience. Head trainer Susan Dukat said she is happy to see all the students interested in the field of training, but the program is still growing. All six of the student trainers want to continue their career in sports medicine or physical therapy.

Student trainers are in constant demand to do a good and quick job. Rosa Vazquez, junior student trainer, said it made her feel good to know kids her age "look up to her for advice concerning athletic injuries." Senior student trainer Steve Radice thinks the players are courteous and aren't afraid to come in for help.

Training is an extremely demanding and time consuming job. Janie Wood, a varsity track, cross country, and basketball team member said she respected the time and determination student trainers put into what they're doing.

The feeling of knowing a trainer can help an athlete is rewarding, but seeing that athlete shine in his or her moment of glory, and knowing, in a way, that a trainer helped that athlete make it to this point in good health, is the greatest reward of all.

Golf

It was a building season for the boys' golf team. The predominantly young team viewed the season as a chance to build upon their skills. The new head coach, Mr. Tim Grych, brought fresh ideas to the team, while assistant coach, Mr. John Sztot, helped the golfers build upon their existing skills. The team missed advancing to regional play by a mere one point. The team finished the season with a record of 5-10.

Smashing Success

The 1991-1992 tennis season was a smashing success for both the boys' and girls' teams. The boys, led by co-MVP's Jun Jao and Dennis Billena finished the season with a 14-2 record. A key victory came over Munster. The unstoppable force in Jun Jao, Rodney Jao, and Dennis Billena were one, two and three singles, respectively. The number one doubles team, composed of Most-Improved Eric Marasco and Frank Tresgallo, contributed much to the winning record. Rounding out the roster were number two doubles, freshmen Ryan Carlos and Santosh Unni. The team was guided by Coach Mr. Jim Klora.

The girls' team completed the season with the best girls' record in Andrew history, 16-2. Number one doubles, Katie Wheeler and Jen Kroepfl, finished an outstanding season, and for the first time in girls' tennis history advanced to the state finals. Coach Mike Rosta encouraged the girls and cheered them on to their many victories. Lisa Kackos and Janie Wood, co-MVP's and number two doubles, assisted in many wins. Help in the singles matches came from Nora Atassi, Most-Improved Cherilynnne Villaflor, and Liz McMahon. Key victories included beating state ranked Munster and Merrillville.

Freshmen Set Record

The freshman girls completed their first season of play with an outstanding 15-1 record. Led by Co-MVP's Meredith Mish and Jacki Rossi, freshmen defeated every opponent except Valparaiso, who beat the Niners by one point. Coach Mike Reynolds and Most-Improved, Laura Muszlik, helped the team achieve the best season record for a girls' basketball team in Andrean history.

The junior varsity was coached by Mr. George Washington. Jen Doffin, MVP, aided the team in its many victories.

The young varsity team was led by lone senior, Diane Jurcin, Leadership and Mental Attitude award winner. Coached by Mr. Dan Rogovich, assisted by Mr. Tim Maluga, the varsity finished its season with a record of 11-11. A key victory came early in the season when Niners gave undefeated rival Whiting its first loss. MVP Carolyn Kacocha assisted the team in a 16 point come-from-behind victory over Hobart. Most Pride, Desire and Hustle, Janie Wood, and Most Improved Llsa Kackos, helped the team beat River Forest in the first round of sectional play. Later in sectionals, the Lady Niners lost to Hobart by a narrow margin.

Sophomore and Most-Improved Llsa Kackos shoots two points to tie the game.

"We improved a lot since last year and got our record up to 11-11. Mr. Rogovich and Mr. Maluga made practice fun. I only wish we'd beaten Hobart at sectionals instead of during the season."

Lisa Kackos, Sophomore, Most-Improved

"The 1991-92 girls' basketball season was anything but predictable. We won some games by coming back strong in the third and fourth quarters, but on the other hand, we weren't always able to pull them out. We worked together as a team and when we would win, it was because of a team effort, not an individual one. We all enjoyed this season and we're eager for next year."

Janie Wood, Junior, Most Desire, Pride and Hustle

Varsity Defeats Rivals

Winning the East Chicago holiday tournament proved to be one of the many highlights of the season. Beating East Chicago proved that the Niners could successfully take on other tough teams. Another key victory was taken at the expense of highly publicized rival Lake Central, 82-80. Senior Chris Artis, MVP, helped in the many victories, but on a whole, success was a strong team effort. Coach Bob Buscher said the team "really epitomized what a team is all about. Everyone sacrificed, but in the end someone always came through."

Rob Lemmons came through for the Niners at the free throw line with the highest free throw percentage and Jeff Jacobs with the most assists. Seniors Brian Wolf, Rob Lemmons and Chris Artis received the captain's award while Mike Retseck, Derek Brown and Dave Mostello were Andrew Award recipients. Coach Buscher remarked that the team was among the most enjoyable he's ever coached.

"Everyone had a great attitude and there was a real good chemistry," said Coach Buscher. The varsity team finished the season with a 16-4 record.

Brian Wolf scores two to take the lead over Bishop Noll.

Chris Artis, MVP, goes up against Bishop Noll for two points.

Paul Muszik scores two points to increase the lead over Calumet.

JV Has Winning Streak

Coach Mike Pritchett describes the junior varsity team as "competitive, hard working and unselfish." It was these qualities that earned an impressive 16-4 record. After getting off to a slow start, the turning point of the season came at the Chicago Hales Franciscan game where the Niners gave the undefeated team their first loss, 58-57, in overtime. This big win started the junior varsity team on a fourteen game winning streak. Coach Pritchett stated that the team was one of the closest and most enjoyable teams he's ever coached in his five years at Andrean. Coach Pritchett explained that because of the abundance of talent and the unselfishness on the team, it was difficult to name a single most valuable player.

The freshmen, coached by Mr. Dan Radinsky and Mr. Tim Grzych, were led to their many victories by MVP Lewis Eldridge and Mr. Hustle, Greg Bradach.

Seven seniors spark soccer season

Seven seniors — Pete Reist, Dennis Billena, Dan Hruskoc, Prit Sinchal, Ryan Kosiba, Mark Mirro, and Frank Tresgallo — brought depth and experience to the soccer team, which finished its season with a conference record of 6-1 and an overall record of 13-5-1.

Their final victory over Chesterton assured a second place conference finish and a trip to the Northern Cup Tournament. They reached the third round of Northern Cup play but lost to South Bend Adams.

According to Coach Perrin, "This year was good, but next year should be better with only one senior graduating." Special awards went to Amber Alm, Most Valuable Overall, Shelly Holzer and Sheila Fagen, Most Valuable Runners, Brenda Pszonka, Most Valuable in Field Events, Christine Wilson, Most Improved, and Jessica Powell received the Sr. Rose Mary Award.

Niners smash through sectionals

The baseball team ended its season with a record of 18-4. They defeated Horace Mann, Roosevelt, and West Side to once again gain the sectional title, but suffered a loss to Hammond Gavit in the regionals.

Highlights of the season included wins over Highland and Hobart. Their win over Bishop McNamara gave the 59ers their first Andrean Invitational title since 1985.

Seven seniors contributed greatly to the 59ers' excellent season. Mark Hojnacki's good season on the mound, Sean Mihal's relief pitching, Tom Hilbrich's hitting, Mike MacDonald's outstanding playing at shortstop, Brian Wolf's outfielding, Eric Mirich's centerfielding, and Rob Lemmons' ability to play a number of positions all added to the team's great season. Social Studies: WWI

The Sophomore class replayed World War I this year by fighting as an Allied nation or a Central Power nation. Students broke into groups and chose leaders for their nations, and these leaders in turn decided the numbers of submarines or warships to launch. Whoever succeeded without losing too many men and weapons and accomplished their set goals would emerge as the winner. This year Russia was victorious, but Germany was defeated badly since the Germans assassinated their own leader, John Puntillo. "It was a better way to learn history than sitting in the classroom and reading from the book," said Amy Moskalick.

Style of Study

It's one o'clock in the morning and you've got a cup of coffee to keep you awake. You must pass this history test so your parents will let you go to the big dance next Saturday night. Can you handle the pressure? Are your study habits strong enough? Is it really worth all the extra effort?

Most Andrean students will or have already experienced such a night more than once — especially at Andrean. When mid-terms and finals begin, study skills are put to the ultimate test.

Freshmen experience a grueling first year of taunting not only from students but also from TEACHERS too! To study enough, Christina Hefner reviews, re-writes, and re-reads. Christina says, "Studying is a big part of school, along with reading. During your freshman year you have to show teachers what you are capable of doing." Christina feels that Andrean is a challenge but it prepares you for the real world.

Sophomores have already developed their study habits and know what they have to do. Kathleen de la Paz says, "If I pay attention and take good notes, when the test comes all I do is review." Kathleen continued to say that, "Exams are easier to study for when I do it that way."

The junior class has only one more year. The pressure is on and their nerves are weakening. To study for school and prepare for the SAT can be hell. Lisa Waddell, member of poms, says she just relaxes and doesn't try to think about the pressure of this year. She divides her study time equally among subjects. Lisa quizzes herself and re-reads her material. Lisa says, "When I first arrived at Andrean, I promised myself that I would make good grades and establish myself as a hard-working student and, so far, I think I've done it."

Most seniors have already been accepted into the colleges of their choice and just want to relax and enjoy senior privileges. Seniors have a fully developed "style of study." Sean Granger, a football player, says, "Having football practice and keeping up with my studies pushes me harder because I know my time is limited." Study time for Sean usually lasts about three hours per night. He says he can study in any environment except a noisy one. In his senior year, Sean is trying to stay focused on his work and to push himself to do the best he can.

Miss Indiana Teen

Nicole Tirapelli, a freshman, holds the title of Miss Indiana American Teen 1991. Nicole entered the competition two years ago when she received a brochure in the mail. Nicole filled it out and sent it in just for fun. Then, pageant organizers contacted Nicole, expressing their interest and asking for more information. Nicole's parents gave her their support and encouragement. "So I went for it," said Nicole. Last year she competed in the national pageant held in Florida, finishing in the top ten. On her second trip she earned the title of Miss Indiana American Teen Queen.

When she earned her title, Nicole received a $500 prize and a trip for two to Disney World in Florida.

Nicole said these pageants have taught her how to set and achieve goals, how to be out-going, and how to meet people.

Nicole keeps in shape with sports. Some of her favorites are basketball, water skiing, softball, tennis, and volleyball. She is on the Niner JV volleyball team. Does she have to watch her diet carefully to keep in shape? Nicole says, "I eat whatever I feel like eating."

Asked if she felt any pressure to look her best to keep up her reputation, she replied, "At school appearances don't count. I just worry about my grades, like everyone else."

Musical Mix

A paradox is a person or thing that seems to be full of contradictions. However, when a group of sophomores put their musical talents together, they added a new twist to this definition when they chose the word for their band name. Members Jeff Pawlowski, Scott Burdan, Jason Schneider, and John Sullivan contradict the stereotype which dictates that a group can play only one type of music well.

Paradox's variety of music is formed from Jason's heavy thrash preference, Scott's moderate metal style, and Jeff's classic rock brio. Paradox plays a variety of covers but is also working on a new combination of original songs. When writing songs, Paradox gets together to work in a combined effort. Any arguments are solved by "one of us coming forward to assert himself," according to Jason.

Paradox displays the varied talents of its members at the talent show.

Faculty daughters

Three sophomores are unique among other students at Andrean. They are fortunate enough to see a parent every day at school. Justine Bennett, Luci Pati, and Amber Zimmer are the daughters of their friends' teachers.

The girls agree that although the situation has some disadvantages they do not mind attending the school where their parents teach. Justine says that she feels slightly different from other students because the faculty usually associates her with her father. "He talks to my teachers every day and knows my test grades before I do," she announces. Lucy and Amber agree. "If I get into trouble, my mom is always the first to know," Luci states. Any extra attention is not always good attention, however, since some teachers expect more from teachers' kids.

Luci admits, "I don't mind my mom teaching my friends because they think she's a nice person and a good teacher." Amber feels fortunate to attend the school where her father teaches. She smiles as she adds, "I like it because I enjoy being closer to my father."

Coming to America

In August Ruth Allende's mother asked her if she would like to be a foreign exchange student in America. Ruth spontaneously responded, "Why not?" The next thing she knew her mother had made all the arrangements, and she was on a plane heading for an overseas country.

When Ruth landed, she didn't have any specific expectations. She said, "I didn't want to be disappointed with the things I was going to find in America." To Ruth, America is completely different from Spain.

"American Society," she stated, "is based upon ideas that are simply different from Spanish. It is uncommon for Spanish students to work unless their family really needs the money." She said her obligation is to study and prepare for the future.

Spanish high school students have to take the classes that have been chosen by the government "according to what they will study in college."

Ruth has enjoyed her stay in America so far. She quickly made many friends. For her 16th birthday Kunteera Vachirasomboon threw a surprise birthday party for her. "I was completely shocked," Ruth announced. Ruth also enjoyed visiting St. Louis, and she said, "The shopping in America is wonderful, since the clothes are much cheaper than they are in Spain."

Andrean's Travolta

Jeff Charlton thinks of himself as "Andrean's version of John Travolta." From pep rallies to basketball games, Jeff is totally at home in front of the entire school as he inspires cheers and an overflow of school spirit. Even though he's been a class clown since birth, it wasn't until the middle of his sophomore year that Jeff made his debut performance for Andrean at the Crown Point game. Now Jeff performs on a regular basis but he doesn't want to overdo it. He explains, "I don't want people to get tired of watching me dance. I have to keep practicing my moves." But the Andrean crowd doesn't seem to be getting tired of watching. His dancing causes bleachers of fans to scream and cheer. Jeff likes dancing because "It gets the crowd riled, it helps the team, and I get in the game for free." Jeff wants to thank all his supporters and say that he "appreciates the people who like his dancing."

Senior year hectic to end

For three years members of the Class of 1992 awaited their senior year, but now that it has arrived many wish they could turn back the hands of time. Many students who expected to breeze through classes senior year and spend more time partying than studying find themselves spending free time filling out college applications, taking SATs, and applying for financial aid.

LaShanta Jones said, "I thought I would be able to work during the school week and manage my studies and social activities," but much to LaShanta's dismay she found herself staying up late to finish her homework and household chores. LaShanta's situation is very common among seniors. Many seniors are working, participating in school clubs and sports, and taking challenging classes such as AP English, calculus, physics, and government. Others take Typing II, Independent Living, office assistant, and other electives to ensure their graduation. But most of these students are finding out that many colleges and universities do not acknowledge many of the electives that seniors would like to take to fill up schedules. Therefore, these seniors are pressured to make outstanding grades in math, English, social studies, and sciences so they will have an acceptable G.P.A.

Although senior year is very demanding, many seniors feel that the hard work will prepare them for college and life's challenges. "If senior year were a breeze," said Ibe Mbanu, "many seniors would not mature or take life seriously." Senior year is not designed to discourage students; it is designed to incorporate all values, knowledge, and skills learned into student lives so that they will be well-rounded individuals.

SENIOR LEADERS

"The most memorable moment from student council was when I attended the national convention in South Carolina. I have also enjoyed and will always remember all the people I have worked with on student council. They are all great people, especially our moderators because I have learned so much from them!"

Missy Martens, Student Council President

"Student council was a memorable part of my senior year because I was able to learn about leadership and at the same time I was able to do something to benefit Andrean High School."

Megan Kucka, Senior class secretary

Student council president, Missy Martens joins fellow class officers Hsiulien Perez, vice-president; Craig Stafford, president; and Megan Kucka, secretary.

1992 — AHS IN

Andrean says goodbye to Sr. Christopher and Father Kauffman.

Andrean bids a fond farewell to assistant principals Rev. Dennis Kauffman, C.S.B. and Sr. Christopher, S.S.C.M. They will be moving on to other assignments in August. Fr. Kauffman has been reassigned to his Alma Mater, Aquinas Institute, in Rochester, New York.

Fr. Kauffman, who has been at Andrean for eleven years, says that leaving saddens him very much. He will miss the family atmosphere at Andrean, but he will always remember the 1980 Final Four Basketball game and the entire championship season. One word Father used to sum up his experience at Andrean was "fantastic." Fr. Kauffman says that he expects a challenge from his new school and that his future is up in the air right now, but that he is basically just trying to be a good priest.

Sr. Christopher has been at Andrean since 1976. Besides serving as assistant principal, Sister has also taught pre-algebra and English during summer school, and was moderator of the pom squad this year. Sister says the thing she will miss most will be the kids. "They keep me young at heart and mind," she said. Sister Christopher also said that she will never forget when the basketball team went to the Final Four in 1980.

Just as Sr. Christopher and Fr. Kauffman are saddened about their departure, students say they will miss them very much. "We will especially miss talking to Sister during lunch," said Junior Natalie Haber. Senior Richard Mayhoe said, "I will miss Fr. Kauffman reprimanding me each day for not following the dress code."

Sister is not sure what she will be assigned to do next year, but she will probably be taking a sabbatical.

The faculty and students wish Sr. Christopher and Fr. Kauffman happiness and success in their new assignments.

Teacher of the Year

Mrs. Mary Shafer was named Inland Steel Teacher of the Year for 1992. Mrs. Shafer has been teaching mathematics at Andrean for five years and is the moderator of the Math Club. She also has been the coordinator of Math-Into-Action, a program which encourages students in grades six to eight to explore the field of mathematics.

Artist wins award

Senior Liz Mayer won the Northwest Indiana Art Association Best of Show for her watercolor painting, "Elegance." "It's composed of all kinds of squiggly lines I made up as I went along on a purple, orange, and green background," said Liz. Liz also won an honorable mention for her color-pencil piece, "Frightened and Enraged."

Armageddon

The Class of 1992 has been one of the few classes to win Armageddon for two consecutive years. They dominated the Class of 1991 with outstanding school spirit and talented athletes who also helped them win again this year.

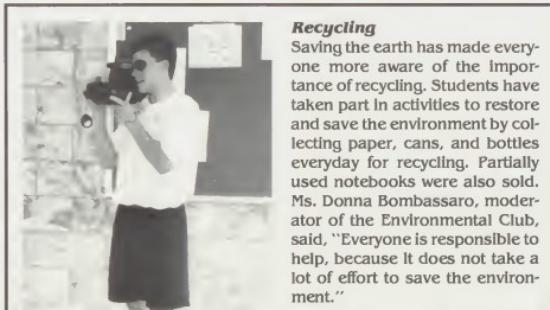

REVIEW — 1992

Brian Dowd crushes cans for recycling during lunch.

Uniform additions

During the school year two additions were made to the school uniforms that pleased many students. The girls were allowed to wear black slacks during the winter season and all of the students were allowed to order a summer uniform. The summer uniform consists of a white polo shirt with the Andrean logo and navy blue shorts to keep everyone cool in the warm months.

Recycling

Saving the earth has made everyone more aware of the importance of recycling. Students have taken part in activities to restore and save the environment by collecting paper, cans, and bottles everyday for recycling. Partially used notebooks were also sold. Ms. Donna Bombassaro, moderator of the Environmental Club, said, "Everyone is responsible to help, because it does not take a lot of effort to save the environment."

Celebrating Black History

During the month of February many Andrean students were involved with the celebration of Black History Month.

Seniors April Dungy and Nicole Taylor decorated the school's showcase with African artifacts and the Campus Ministry also helped coordinate Andrean's first cultural mass celebrating Black History Month. The celebration of Black History month is very beneficial to all students because it is part of everyone's history.

Senior Sean Mihal said, "I feel that Black History Month shows everyone that the Afro-American race is not as bad as they are sometimes depicted by movies or the news media."

Celebrating Black History Month gives African-Americans the positive sense that they are a good and thriving race.

Still, some students feel that Andrean should celebrate all ethnic cultures that are represented at Andrean so that "we" as a school will be united as a true Christian family.

1992 — YEAR IN

Bad checks

On October 1 an audit showed that in one twelve month period, several members of the House of Representatives wrote 8,311 bad checks against the House's private bank.

Recession

American corporations suffered badly during a '91-'92 recession. Several records were broken, none of them good. Profits fell 41% and 103 companies lost money. Employment figures for January 1992 were positive, but consumer confidence was low. Forecasts suggest a 1.5% growth rate for 1992. The November presidential election could hinge on how accurate those forecasts are.

City on fire

For two days in October, a blazing inferno charred the hills above Oakland, California, killing at least 24 people and destroying more than 2300 homes.

Gorbachev resigns

Mikhail Gorbachev, the Soviet reformer who championed glasnost, survived a coup attempt in August 1991. He later resigned from the Communist party. At the end of 1991, after the breakup of the USSR left only three republics, Russian president Boris Yeltsin led the republics in forming a Commonwealth of Independent States with Minsk, Byelorussia as its capital.

Hostages released

Six surviving Americans who had been kidnapped in Beirut by pro-Iranian Shiite Muslims were released in 1991. Terry Anderson, correspondent for the Associated Press, was the last hostage to be released. He had been held the longest — six years, 265 days.

Clarence Thomas hearings

The nomination of Clarence Thomas to the U.S. Supreme Court sparked controversy about the issue of sexual harassment. Former aide Anita Hill said Thomas harassed her when she worked for him at the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. TV audiences were spellbound on October 11 as she testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Thomas accused the Committee of conducting a "high-tech lynching." The Senate later voted 52-48 to confirm Thomas.

Trial draws viewers

Another sex-and-politics drama was televised nationally when William Kennedy Smith went to trial in West Palm Beach, Florida. He faced a charge of raping Patricia Bowman, a woman he met at a nightclub Easter weekend. He was later found not guilty.

Europe united

Members of the European community voted to form one united economic community. All of Europe will have a common flag and one capital in Maastricht, Belgium. The new currency of the economic community will be the ECU (European Commodity Unit). This sudden change in currency and boundaries will add new competition to trade, which frightens some countries.

AIDS victim

Freddie Mercury, lead singer of the hard-rock group Queen, died on November 24, 1991 at the age of 45 from an illness due to AIDS. Mercury announced that he was suffering from AIDS just one day before his death.

REVIEW — 1992

Saying goodbye

The king of late night, Johnny Carson, left the Tonight Show after thirty years of entertaining both old and young viewers. The Cosby Show also aired its final episode after eight years of family entertainment. Other favorites that aired their final episodes: McGyver, Growing Pains, and Who's the Boss?.

Quayle criticizes Murphy Brown

Vice-president Dan Quayle criticized the May 6 airing of Murphy Brown in which Candice Bergen's character Murphy Brown gave birth to a child out of wedlock. Quayle was quoted as saying, "This episode mocks the importance of fathers." Some Americans argue that Murphy Brown represents many of the young single mothers and their struggles.

Revelation stuns America

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, superstar basketball player of the L.A. Lakers, stunned the sports world and the nation November 7 when he announced he was retiring because he had contracted the HIV virus.

Another stunning revelation

Tennis legend Arthur Ashe revealed he had been infected with the AIDS virus. Ashe won the U.S. Open in 1968, and he became the first and so far only black man to conquer Wimbledon when he defeated Jimmy Connors in 1975. He was infected through a blood transfusion after a 1983 heart bypass operation.

Dahmer convicted

Convicted child molester and chocolate factory worker Jeffrey Dahmer pleaded guilty by reason of insanity to murdering and dismembering 15 men and boys in a Milwaukee, Wisconsin, murder trial. The jury found Dahmer sane. He will be sentenced to 15 life terms in prison. At his trial, Dahmer said, "I carried it too far, that's for sure."

Tyson convicted

In March, former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson was charged and convicted of raping teenage beauty queen Desiree Washington in an Indianapolis hotel room. He was sentenced to six years in prison, fined $30,000, and denied bail pending the appeal of his case. Tyson's trial set a precedent that signifies a new era in prosecuting famous athletes.

"Got it!"

Members of the space shuttle Endeavor Pierre Thuot, Richard Hieb, and Thomas Akers made history when they became the first three persons to walk in space simultaneously. The astronauts grabbed the satellite Intelsat-6 when a fifteen-foot "capture bar" failed to attach to the satellite earlier.

L.A. Riots — Rodney King

On April 30, a jury acquitted 4 white officers in the March 1991 videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King. Soon after the verdict was announced, violence, looting, and burning spread throughout south central Los Angeles, leaving at least fifty-four dead.

'92 Presidential campaign

Many presidential candidates were forced to explain past actions. Presidential candidate Bill Clinton was targeted on areas concerning his marriage, previous draft experience, and his use of marijuana when he was attending college; his opponent, Jerry Brown was questioned about drug use. Additional highlights in the campaign for president were the defeats of Jerry Brown and Paul Tsongas in the primaries, and the entrance of Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot.

AIDS awareness

Fueled by the rising rate of HIV infection among teens, New York City high schools began distributing condoms to their students without parental consent amid protests from angry parents and the Roman Catholic Church.

Airport decision

Gary, Calumet, and Chicago fought to be chosen as the site for a regional airport. Calumet is the most likely site, but many residents are hesitant to accept the airport because of the noise and possible pollution.

Chicago flooding

The Chicago River flooded basements of businesses in downtown Chicago when a hole developed in one of the underground tunnels that run beneath the city. Taxpayers affected by the flood were given an extra week to file their income taxes.

Sister Rose Mary Abbick, SS.C.M.

Andrean bid a sorrowful goodbye to Sister Rose Mary Abbick on April 25, 1992. Sister was 77.

Sr. Rose Mary, a Kansas native, became a sister of SS. Cyril and Methodius in 1941. She became principal and superior of Holy Trinity in Gary before coming to Andrean in 1959 as the first girls' principal.

Sr. Rose Mary had a master's degree in theology from Marquette University. She also taught in New Jersey, South Carolina, and Pennsylvania.

"We used to call her Mother Foundress," Sr. Christopher, assistant principal and superior of the convent, said. "She was the first principal for girls."

In 1969, Sr. Rose Mary became principal for St. Cyril Academy, a girls' boarding school at the mother house in Danville, Pennsylvania. In 1980, she came back to Andrean to teach religion. For more than a decade she was Andrean's clown coach.

"She loved her classes and her students," Sr. Christopher said. "She was very, very patient with them and very kind. She had a very keen sense of humor."

She will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

Poem for the Living

When I am dead
Pray for me a little.
Think of me sometimes,
But not too much.
It is not good for you
To allow your thoughts to dwell
Too long on the dead.
Think of me now and again
As I was in life
At some moment which it is pleasant to recall.
But not for long.
Leave me in peace
As I shall leave you, too, in peace.
While you live
Let your thoughts be with the living.

As styles change, so too will each of us. What we wore and where we went will change, but the openmindedness and positive attitudes we developed will remain with us in our journeys through life.

New styles will continue to change and new people continually enter our lives. These experiences will bring with them originality and spirit that gives Andrean a style all its own.
